Probers Told Crooks Exploiting Workers

Corrupt Labor Union, Employer Deals Charged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—Senate rackets investigators gathered today for masses of testimony today that some gangster-ridden New York labor unions are preying on members and pocketing their dues in corrupt alliances with employers.

The starting point was a blanket indictment by John McNiff of what he said is "collusion between crooked management and crooked unionism" which has imposed economic slavery on workers and threatens to deprive a million of them of "bona-fide union representation."

McNiff, a 22-year-old college student with impressive poise, is executive secretary of the Assn. of Catholic Trade Unionists. He said the organization has seen how countless incidents of collusion have destroyed democratic unionism and produced racketeer control of unions, misuse of union funds, bribery and extortion.

McNiff tied together the names of racketeer Johnny Dio and James R. Hoffa, the man who is the odds-on choice to become the new president of the huge Teamsters Union. Other witnesses have done that, too, before the special Senate committee digging into improper labor-management activities.

Dio Paroled To Testify

An order that Dio be released from jail long enough to testify before the committee next Thursday was issued in New York by General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen. Dio is being held without bail pending sentence on his conviction with two other men in a $30,000 shakedown conspiracy.

Judge Mullen also ordered the others paroled long enough to answer committee subpoenas next week. They are Samuel Goldstein, president of Local 239, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Max Chester, former financial secretary of Local 405, Retail Clerks International Union.

They appeared before Judge Mullen and said they had consented to testify before the committee.

A fourth convicted labor racketeer, Alfred Reger, secretary-treasurer of Local 522 of the Teamsters Union, was ordered paroled for testimony before the committee on Aug. 12. Reger is under sentence of 5 to 10 years for extorting $1,750 from two lumber companies. He also said he had agreed to appear before the committee.

Workers Support Story

McNiff cited details and examples in support of his story to collusion and corruption.

The committee filled in more details from testimony of individual workers and employers. All had had some experience with operations of Teamsters or local unions dominated by Dio.

A woman who works in an appliance factory and a man who is employed in a pen plant told of strikes against the unions rather than against the companies.

The employees said workers suddenly were told they were members of a local, that they were herded in without their consent, some of them under threats of being fired if they resisted. They testified that contracts were made without bargaining and brought few or no benefits to the employees.

The employers were all from little firms—a spring company, a plane parts firm, a belt plant, an auto laundry, an electronic quilting company.

Gem Theft Reported

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (P)—The theft of $6,750 worth of jewelry from the home of Summerfield Baldwin Jr., industrialist and financier, was reported today to Baltimore County police.

President Assails Revised Rights Bill

ASKED TO REPORT — The State Dept. has asked U. S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith (above) to make "a full report" on his visit to Santiago, Cuba. He took his Cuban post a little more than a week ago and visited Santiago, a center of rebel sentiment. Wednesday. (AP Photofax)

House, Senate Approve Bill Reviving SBA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—Legislation reviving the Small Business Administration and giving it another year's lease on life was hustled through the Senate and House today and sent to President Eisenhower.

Technically the SBA expired at midnight July 31 when a bill authorizing its continued existence got backed up behind the Senate civil rights debate. Since then the agency has been unable to make loans to small businessmen or transact other affairs.

In addition to extending the agency for another year, the bill passed today gives SBA 75 million dollars in new lending funds, increasing its total to $300 million.

The Senate agreed by unanimous consent to lay aside the civil rights bill for one hour to dispose of the SBA extension. Despite the time limitation, nearly a score of senators arose to praise the agency before the extension bill was passed by unanimous vote.

The measure that was sped to the House, which previously had approved permanent status for the SBA. The House accepted the Senate version and sent the bill to the White House for Eisenhower's expected signature.

Most of the senators speaking in favor of the agency said they also would like to see it have permanent status.

In addition to making loans to small businessmen, the SBA helps them share in government contracts and administers national disaster programs.

George's Heart Failing

VIENNA, Ga., Aug. 2 (P)—Walter F. George's doctor said today the former senator's heart "is giving out."

Star-Studded Confidential Trial Off To Limping Start

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2 (P)—There were lights and cameras but little action today as the curtain went up on the criminal libel case involving Confidential magazine and a long list of Hollywood personalities.

Any self-respecting movie producer would have been agast at sending a star studded attraction off to such a limping start.

Due to a judicial mixup, the case was assigned to the wrong court. It caused a half day delay and wasted the appearance of actors Tab Hunter, Buddy Baer and Alan Nixon, former husband of Marie Wilson, as witnesses.

While an eager public jammed the courtroom and the corridors leading to it, hoping for spicy details of the private lives of movie stars, the case almost got lost in a maze of legal technicalities. The defendants, all under grand

Measure Set Up For Senate Vote

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—President Eisenhower blasted the revamped civil rights bill in an angry statement today but the Senate pushed it to the point of passage.

When the chamber knocked off work in late afternoon it had completed all action on the bill except the rollcall on approval.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader, said he hoped for that rollcall next Tuesday. There was no sign of a filibuster.

Eisenhower struck hard at the amendment, adopted last night, guaranteeing jury trials of any criminal contempt of court charges growing out of voting rights cases or a host of other cases.

Veto Possibility Raised

He said this was a blow to "our whole judicial system" and added: "It will also make largely ineffective the basic purpose of the bill—that of protecting promptly and effectively every American in his rights to vote."

This presidential language raised speculation about a possible veto, but some supporters of the administration measure were hoping to change the Senate amendment in a Senate-House conference.

The House has passed a bill along the lines desired by the administration. For one thing it provides no jury trials in cases where persons violate voting rights injunctions issued by federal judges at the request of the attorney general.

Knowland To Vote For Bill

This morning, Sen. Knowland of California, Republican leader who fought the jury trial amendment, expressed belief that it was now unlikely any civil rights bill would reach the statute books this year. He and Rep. Keating of New York, a leading House Republican, took the view that a Senate-House conference could not succeed in combining the two measures.

But this afternoon Knowland announced he would vote for the bill next Tuesday, in the belief it is "better than nothing at all" and in the hope it can be "modified and strengthened" in conference.

Model Missing, Feared Kidnaped

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2 (P)—A blonde model who specializes in pin-up poses was sought by police today after failing to return from a modeling date.

Missing is Judy Ann Van Horn Dull, 19, who lives with two other models in an apartment here.

Sheriff's Sgt. Dave Ostroff said detectives have listed the case as "missing person, possibly kidnap."

Mrs. Dull, who is estranged from her husband, Robert L. Dull of La Crescenta, left her apartment at 2:30 p.m. yesterday with a man who gave his name as Johnny Glynn. A roommate, Betty Carver, 18, told detectives the man identified himself as a professional photographer.

Sheriff's officers said they can't locate any photographer named Johnny Glynn.

Hoffa Faction Woos Building Trades Unions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—The giant Teamsters Union hinted today it may try to lead the three-million-member Building and Construction Trades unions out of the AFL-CIO.

The move was seen as the opening gun in a drive by rising Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa to expand his influence in organized labor at the expense of such other AFL-CIO leaders as George Meany and Walter Reuther.

While vaguely worded, the Teamsters blast made it clear that the Hoffa-led faction is bent on rallying building trades unions, core of the former AFL, into outright war with the former CIO unions, in which Reuther is the dominant figure.

A press release from Teamsters headquarters said: "Teamster delegates have decided to support a move to advise AFL-CIO President George Meany that the Building and Construction Trades Unions in industrial areas do not intend to become 'sacrificial lambs' on the altar of the merged AFL and CIO."

The Teamsters' announcement noted with approval a resolution adopted by the Detroit Building and Construction Trades Council—an organization within Hoffa's area of influence—supporting the AFL-CIO merger with the tongue-in-cheek condition that:

"We are not prepared to pay the high price tag that the ultimate (merger) product apparently now carries."

The complaint of the Detroit council, and apparently the Teamsters under Hoffa, ostensibly is the way Meany is handling the age-old problem of jurisdictional disputes. But this was believed to be a smokescreen for Hoffa to stir up a storm.

Alleged Bailey Quote Debated

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—Whether Rep. Bailey (D-W.Va.) called President Eisenhower "a lousy liar" was the subject of a brief House discussion today.

Bailey was quoted to that effect in a wire service (United Press) dispatch yesterday in which he gave his views on the President's attitude on the school-aid bill.

He denied that he had made the remark.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill.), minority whip, told the House he assumed that Bailey had been quoted correctly and regretted that "a member of this body" would use "such intemperate language with respect to the President of all the people of the United States."

Rep. Smith (D-Va.) promptly rose to the defense of Bailey, who was absent at the time. He said Arends evidently was not aware that Bailey publicly had disclaimed the remark attributed to him.

"Those who know him (Bailey) know that would not be in his nature," Smith added.

Rep. Neal (R-W.Va.) said he was sorry the matter was brought up in the House. He was quite certain, he said, that Bailey would not wilfully make such a remark.

Gas Pipeline Break Erupts In Flame

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 2 (P)—A break in a pipeline carrying 80-octane gasoline set off a spectacular fire three miles from Morgantown today.

Flames roared 40 feet into the air from the ruptured line. Surrounding brush caught fire and burned over a 10-acre area. There were no buildings in the area.

The blaze, discovered about noon, was brought under control by the Morgantown fire department and volunteer departments from Westover and Scotts Run.

The line, operated by the Eureka Pipeline Co., was shut off at points on both sides of the break; the fire would burn itself out.

Refrigerator Deadline

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—The government today set Oct. 30, 1958, as the date by which all refrigerators manufactured and introduced into interstate commerce must be equipped with a safety device enabling trapped children to escape.

It's Work As Usual For Hoffa

James R. Hoffa, midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, working in his shirtsleeves, confers with David Previant, an attorney from Milwaukee, during a break in a meeting of the union's constitution committee in San Francisco yesterday. As Hoffa and other union executives were meeting, a story that corrupt New York labor unions prey on enslaved workers — a story entwining the names of Hoffa and gangster Johnny Dio — unfolded before Senate rackets investigations.

Envoy To Cuba Will Report On Disputed Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—The United States ordered its fledgling ambassador in Cuba today to make a full report at once on his sensational and disputed visit Wednesday to the city of Santiago, a center of rebel sentiment.

The United States at the same time proclaimed its "traditional policy of non-intervention" in Cuba's current political strife. But this is standard American practice in such a situation and gave little fresh clue as to whether Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith was acting under instructions or pulled a blunder when he journeyed to Santiago.

The case is one of two ambassadorial affairs that seem certain to claim the earnest attention of Secretary of State Dulles upon his return from disarmament negotiations in London this week.

News dispatches said he was leaving London tonight and the State Department thought he would reach Washington tomorrow to report to President Eisenhower.

The other case is that of Maxwell H. Gluck, wealthy business man and race horse owner who was recently appointed ambassador to Ceylon.

Although State Department officials are generally following a policy of discreet silence on the matter since the appointment was defended by Eisenhower at a news conference Wednesday, there is increasing concern among officials there. An exposure several days ago of Gluck's lack of information at that time about Ceylon threatened to impair his prestige and perhaps ruin his usefulness as envoy to Colombo.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee under questioning that he found it difficult to pronounce the name of India's Prime Minister Nehru and could not call off the name of Ceylon's Prime Minister Bandaranaike. He answered other inquiries negatively also.

He has been ridiculed in the Ceylonese press and State Department officials were interested in a report that Prime Minister Bandaranaike had used the example of Gluck as a defense against parliamentary attack on one of his ambassadors who had pulled a boner.

Eisenhower Signs Defense, Farm Bills

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—President Eisenhower today signed bills carrying money to run the defense establishment and the Agriculture Department in the 12 months that started July 1.

Eisenhower acted just a day after the bills were sent to him by the Senate during an armistice in the civil rights debate. An impasse in the Senate had for a time threatened payless paydays for some four million armed forces and civilian personnel.

The defense appropriation for the fiscal year that began July 1 carries $33,759,850,000 compared with Eisenhower's original budget estimate of $36,128,000,000. The request was later trimmed down.

Anglers Protest "Baiting" For Ike

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 2 (P)—The Rhode Island League of Salt Water Anglers is angry because Newport waters are being baited to insure good fishing prospects for President Eisenhower during his vacation visit.

The league, a 3,000 member organization dedicated to the preservation of the state's salt water resources, wired the President today asking him to intervene in the "chumming" of Newport waters.

The telegram resulted from Newport Councilman George W. Lawton's disclosure that minced fish was being scattered in the waters to attract striped bass and bluefish to spots where the President is expected to drop his line.

In the telegram the salt water anglers said "the effect of this baiting action is the loading of commercial traps in the area and causing further slaughter and depletion of game fish in Rhode Island waters."

Negroes Unable To Resist Sales

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Aug. 2 (P)—Negroes who boycotted white Tuskegee merchants reportedly have joined white shoppers in sizable numbers in patronizing downtown stores during a big sales promotion campaign.

The merchants adopted the "bargains galore" technique to offset the loss of Negro trade in the Macon county seat whose population is 70 per cent Negro.

MacDonald Gallion, chief assistant in the state attorney general's office who has been investigating the boycott, said yesterday there was a definite pickup in Negro trade.

Gallion said, "Our primary objective after all is to break up any illegal boycott. That is our fundamental objective and any prosecution resulting from the boycott will be secondary."

Alabama law prohibits mass boycotts without just cause or legal excuse.

Eartha Kitt 'Unruly,' Club Charges In $200,637 Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (P)—A night club today sued Eartha Kitt for $200,637, claiming she poured champagne on patrons, shattered glassware and struck one of the owners when he tried to talk with her about a $137 bill.

The suit was filed in Supreme Court by E. J. H. Bar and Grill, operator of the African Room at 780 Third Ave. It asks $150,637 for the club and $50,000 for Harold Kanter, one of the officers.

The complaint said the Negro singer and a party of guests entered the night club about 1 a. m. June 5, and ordered champagne and other drinks.

"Eartha Kitt," the complaint said, "became loud and boisterous, commenced to shatter champagne glasses, pour champagne and liquids on the table and became generally offensive to the patrons."

Papers in the suit said that

Russia Blasts West's Berlin Declaration

MOSCOW, Aug. 2 (P)—A Soviet spokesman charged tonight that the West, by pledging to reject any disarmament agreement which would hinder the reunification of Germany, was attempting to break up the London arms talks.

Leonid Ilyichev, the spokesman, called a news conference at the Foreign Ministry to tongue-lash the Berlin declaration signed last Monday by the United States, Britain, France and West Germany.

The three Western Powers said in that declaration they would sign no disarmament agreement that would "prejudice the reunification of Germany." Reunification, they said, could only be brought about by free, all-German elections.

They thus assured Germans there was no danger the West, in talks within the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee in London, would agree to any neutral or demilitarized zone in Europe which would center on the present line dividing Germany. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer fears such a zone, which has been proposed by Russia, would perpetuate Germany's division.

Ilyichev said the Berlin declaration was an effort to make political propaganda for Adenauer before the West German elections.

In contrast to the Western position on free, all-German elections, he repeated the Soviet position that reunification can only be brought about through direct negotiations between East and West Germany, and voiced support for the East German suggestion of a federation by the two German governments.

Ilyichev said the Berlin declaration was based on "the false thesis that the German problem is the main cause of international tension today."

The real cause, he contended, is "the cold war policy of the Western Powers, the feverish armament race they are stubbornly pursuing and the American plans to establish atomic bases on foreign territory."

about 2 a. m. Kanter instructed the waiter not to serve any more drinks to Miss Kitt or her party and "presented a reasonable and proper bill to the actress."

The complaint charged Miss Kitt then shouted, "This is a clip joint, you are nothing but a bunch of thieves." It also charged that she poured champagne on patrons, shattered glassware near and about tables occupied by other patrons, disported herself upon the stage in a lewd and suggestive manner and made herself generally offensive to other patrons.

It also charged that the singer slapped Kanter, struck him "in the groin with her fist" and accused him "of being a thief and running a clip joint."

Miss Kitt, expressing "shock and amazement" at the suit, told an interviewer she thought the $137 bill was preposterous.

Red Reaction To Proposal Unfavorable

Inspection Of All Of Russia And U.S., Europe Suggested

LONDON, Aug. 2 (P)—Secretary of State Dulles proposed today that world peace inspectors roam Russia, the United States and most of Europe by plane and aground to guard against a sneak H-bomb attack.

Dulles presented this major plan for the North Atlantic Allies in a two-part proposal before the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee.

If Russia rejects it, he suggested, there could be this alternative: inspection of Arctic Circle territories plus most of the European land mass from Ireland to the Urals and Pacific territory covering the southern sections of Alaska, the Soviet Kamchatka Peninsula and all the Aleutian and Kurile Islands.

Viewed from the top of the world, this optional zone would look like a two-bladed fan pegged to the North Pole.

Bid To Break Stalemate

Dulles broadened President Eisenhower's two-year-old "open skies" plan in a bid to break the deadlock in disarmament negotiations which opened here 4½ months ago.

"If we can eliminate the threat of surprise attacks, I don't think we will have war," he said later in a British TV broadcast.

"We have nothing to conceal. If Russia has nothing to conceal, she will accept the plan. If she has something to hide, she will refuse it."

Caution marked the initial Russian reaction.

Soviet delegate Valerin Zorin told the subcommittee Russia will study the plan carefully. He suggested, however, that the plan was unfair to Russia and favored the West in that it did not allow for Soviet inspection of American, NATO and SEATO bases in Japan, North Africa, the Middle East and elsewhere.

Reaction Unfavorable

British sources described his off-the-cuff comment as unfavorable.

Dulles privately viewed Zorin's reaction as "not as bad as had been feared and about as good as had been hoped," an American informant said. Aides quoted him as saying his hurried trip to London on Eisenhower's orders to intercede in the talks of the five-power subcommittee had worked out very well.

The secretary, who arrived in London Monday, flew off to Washington tonight to report to the President.

A Soviet informant said later the main threat to Russian security rests in bases which would not be open to Soviet inspection under the plan. This informant also said Russia was disappointed because Dulles concentrated on methods of controlling disarmament rather than on cutting down on arms. He said control was meaningless without substantial disarmament.

Teeners' Rocket Proves Failure

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. Aug. 2 (P)—A homemade rocket, built in a Tulsa welding shop by two teenagers, put out a lot of noise, flames and smoke this morning but failed to leave its launching site.

Clifford Ramsey and Bradley Gover, both 17, shook their heads in disgust. The 200 witnesses who gathered to watch the firing at Holloman Air Development Center here let out a sigh of disappointment.

Maj. Gen. L. I. Davis, commander of the Air Development Center, commented: "Well, back to the drawing boards."

Air Force rocket experts said a leak in the fuel line allowed fuel to enter the rocket motor, damaging it.

The Ramsey-Glover homemade rocket was worked over by some of the top rocket experts of the Air Force. The scientists made a few changes in the 12-foot rocket. But it remained about the same as designed and built by the Tulsa boys.

Neither Glover nor Ramsey had any comment.

Today's Chuckle

"Why do you want to enter the U. S.?" the immigration official asked.

"I want to lead a peaceful life and make an honest living," replied the immigrant. "Good," said the official. "That's not one of our overcrowded fields." (Copyright General Features Corp.)

Clash Between Cuban Rebels, Army Reported

10 Insurgents Slain In Clash

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 2 (P)—Fidel Castro's rebel forces were reported to have come down from their mountain hideouts today for a clash with the army in the midst of creeping resistance in eastern Cuba to President Fulgencio Batista's rule.

Cuban army headquarters said a band of the rebels, who have been staging gadfly attacks for months, was encountered near Uberos on the south coast of Oriente Province, and 10 were killed. Several rebels also were captured, the army said, and a large supply of arms hidden in caves were seized. The arms were said to have been hidden on Valadero farm where the clash took place.

Earlier, it was rumored that the rebel forces had clashed with army forces at Media Luna, about 25 miles south of Manzanillo in Oriente Province. Oriente is a hotbed of rebel activity.

Today's reports followed a rebel attack on an army post at Bueyito, in the same province, yesterday. There the rebels burned the post and carried off arms.

An army communique on the Bueyito battle reported two soldiers were killed and three wounded and the rebels suffered three killed and several wounded. The wounded were carried away in a rebel truck, it said.

The Batista government yesterday suspended constitutional guarantees for 45 days, and put the nation under strict military rule as a result of a general strike and growing resistance in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente Province.

Similar suspension of constitutional guarantees was declared after Castro landed with a tiny invasion force last December and hid out in the rugged Maestra Mountains in the province. After repeated extensions, it was ended only last April.

The call for a general strike followed the involvement of the new U.S. ambassador, Earl E. T. Smith, in an incident at Santiago Tuesday.

Women, many wearing black, attempted an anti-Batista demonstration in Smith's presence while he was visiting the city. Police dispersed them with fire hoses and made many arrests while the women were shouting "freedom."

One account received by the Cuban government had it that Smith said, "Any form of excessive police action is repugnant to me" and had expressed hope the arrested women would be freed.

Several Cuban officials declared the ambassador's remarks were "improper." Informed sources said, however, the Cuban government had no intention of asking for Smith's recall.

2d Army Plans Reorganization

FT. MEADE, Md., Aug. 2 (P)—The 2d Army today announced plans to do away with its military district organizations in the states under its command and set up two command centers to take over the districts' functions.

Lt. Gen. Charles E. Hart, 2nd Army commander, said the reorganization would result in the saving of more than $619,000 a year.

Under the new plan effective Aug. 14 the former military districts in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia will be under Lt. Gen. Herbert J. Vander Heide, who will become XXI Corps commander with headquarters at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Annville, Pa.

Vander Heide formerly was deputy chief of staff, plans and operations, USAFFE, 8th Army.

The former military districts in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia will be under Maj. Gen. Martin J. Morin, who will assume command of the XX Corps with headquarters at Ft. Hayes, Ohio. Morin presently is chief of the Ohio Military District at Ft. Hayes.

The announcement said 69 persons—9 officers, 1 enlisted man and 59 civilians—would become surplus, representing a cutback of 18 per cent in manpower strength.

Store Owner Kills Wife, Her Sister, Self

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (P)—The bankrupt owner of a suburban garden supply center shot his wife and sister-in-law to death, then took his own life.

Police said the principal figure in the triple shooting last night was Paul R. Warwick Jr., 37, grandson of a former mayor of Philadelphia.

His body was found in his Lansdowne, Pa., apartment, along with those of his wife, Josephine, 35, and her sister, Miss Mary R. McCann, 25.

Mrs. Warwick had been shot three times in the back, her sister and Warwick in the head.

A grandson of the late Charles F. Warwick, who was mayor of Philadelphia from 1895 to 1899, Warwick formerly owned the Lansdowne garden center. He was declared a bankrupt in U.S. District Court here last April 25 with his sister-in-law listed among his creditors.

HAIRCUT BRINGS LAWSUIT — Theodore Eppley, 17, ponds the "Don Eagle" haircut he received while swimming at a York, Pa., pool that brought on a lawsuit filed by his mother for $5,002.98 against the operators of the pool. Mrs. Eppley claims Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Zimmerman, operators of the pool, gave her son the haircut. Theodore's mother asked $5,000 for ridicule to her son and $2.98 for a torn shirt. Civic Center Site Foes Consider Protest March BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (P)—A march on City Hall to protest Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro's decision to build a new civic center at Druid Hill Park was urged today by opponents of the plan.

The march was suggested at a meeting of representatives of more than two dozen civic and business organizations opposing the plan. The session was held in the offices of a citizens group called the Greater Baltimore Committee.

The committee is among organizations urging that the six million dollar center be built in the downtown area instead of on park land in northwest Baltimore.

Boy Burns To Death In Wrecked Truck

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Aug. 2 (P)—An 18-year-old boy was burned to death today in the cab of a truck tractor after it struck a guard rail on a country road and burst into flames. Two men were thrown clear and injured critically.

State Police identified the victim as Eugene Wagaman, one of 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Wagaman of South Mountain, Pa.

Police Dog Handler Suspended For Attack

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (P)—Patrolman Robert Johnson, handler of a police dog who attacked two men last Saturday, was suspended from the force today.

Johnson was on vacation at the time and had the dog in his car. The dog hopped out, the report showed, and attacked the two passersby.

The director of the department's K-9 Corps said at the time that Johnson "was out with a dog which he had no business doing."

Some Small Tidewater Streams Safe For Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 2 (P)—Tidewater streams were suggested today as a source of water for some of Maryland's drought-stricken crops.

One warning, however, test for salt content first.

The University of Maryland Extension Service provides testing service free.

Charles P. Merrick, university extension drainage engineers stationed at Denton, said sampling has shown that where there are quantities of fresh water coming into small tidewater streams, frequently the water is diluted to the point where it is safe for irrigation.

He said that at low tide the salt content is, as a rule, much lower than at high tide.

For Eastern Shore farmers, portable testing equipment is located at Denton.

The university's soil testing laboratory at College Park also provides this service.

Merrick said that it is believed that in many cases one or two applications of water with medium salt content will not be harmful to either soil or crop.

It is generally believed that water containing over 1,500 parts per million of salt is harmful to crops. Merrick said, however, that during the last several years farmers have used water with more than twice that content without injuring plants.

The stage of growth and the type of plant varies considerably as to salt tolerances.

Salt water applied during the heat of the day has a tendency to burn plants more than when applied in the evening or at night.

1958 Soil Bank Program Has New Regulation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—The Agriculture Department today announced a 500-million-dollar soil bank program for 1958 carrying a new regulation designed to tighten curbs on surplus crop production.

Under the major acreage reserve phase of the program, which has been in effect for the 1956 and 1957 crops, the department makes payments to farmers for planting less than their allotted acres of such surplus crops as cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco.

Financial provisions for the program were contained in an Agriculture Department appropriation bill belatedly passed by Congress yesterday.

Farmers who agree to retire land from these crops will be required to limit their total harvested acreage of all crops. Those who fail to abide by such agreements would lose payments and be subject to "civil penalties" equal to half the payment they otherwise would have earned.

The requirement, set up for the first time, is designed to prevent shifting of land from the major surplus crops to other crops—a practice which, if continued, would create other surpluses and add to the total over-supply of farm products, the department said.

The payment for retiring wheat land will average $20.88 an acre compared with $20.04 this year. Farms with high past average acre yields will tend to get payments above this average while those with smaller yields will get lower payments.

Rates for other crops will be announced later.

The department pointed out that under new congressional action $3,000 will be the maximum amount any one producer will be allowed to earn under the program next year. There was no limit this year.

Train Blast Stirs Panic In Subway

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (P)—An electrical explosion and fire in a crowded subway train today touched off a scrambling rush by passengers in which scores were cut by flying window glass.

Eighty-one persons were injured, none seriously, during the panic-filled seconds following the blast in the subway tube at the Erie Avenue station of the Broad Street subway.

The explosion occurred at 8:40 a.m. at the height of the morning rush hour.

The six-car northbound train—jammed to the doors—was just pulling out of the station in North Philadelphia when the first of a series of loud blasts rocked the train.

The Philadelphia Transportation Co. said a grounded cable under the leading car caused the car's circuit breakers to "cut out" with several very loud reports. There also were electrical flashes and heavy smoke.

Some of the passengers panicked. A few took off their shoes to smash windows and climb out to the station platform. Women screamed. Shattered glass and blood covered the platform.

Three of the six cars of the train were already past the station platform. The train crew opened the doors of the last three cars and there was a rush to safety.

He quickly got the customer on the telephone and explained. She now has a new vacuum cleaner—a brown one.

Potomac Span Idea Shelved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (P)—Congressmen ran into engineering problems today trying to authorize a span over the Potomac River. They finally shelved the whole idea.

After two days of House debate, they came to a voice vote on a bill to build a four-lane traffic tunnel "across" (that's what the bill said) the Potomac River.

Luckily, for the engineers who might be involved, they killed that measure.

In the course of the action, which came on a confusing series of amendments to amendments, a six-lane bridge was suggested instead of a tunnel.

A roll-call vote of 225-107 decided it should be a six-lane fixed span bascule bridge. But, a bascule bridge is a draw bridge, while a fixed span is one that can't be raised, lowered or drawn sideways to let river traffic pass.

Before anything really serious happened, though, Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) moved to recommit the bill and the congressmen agreed.

Davis, Piedmont, and a grandchild.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2 (INS)—Apparently C. V. "Sonny" Whitney is going to concentrate on his bride-to-be Mary Hosford's career. She will star in "The Healing Wood," his next in his Americana series which are made for C. V. Whitney Productions. Her first picture "The Missouri Traveler" which brought her to Hollywood and Sonny, is not yet released.

I had a message from Mrs. Hosford saying she had bought a house in Bel Air and later expected to bring her children here. They are now in Wyoming on a ranch with their paternal grandparents.

Mrs. Hosford had written a cook book with recipes from chefs all over the world. She's a very smart woman and she says, a good cook—not that she'll ever have to cook for Sonny.

Betty Garrett and Larry Parks leave over the weekend to replace Judy Holliday and Sidney Chaplin in "Bells Are Ringing" on Broadway. Later in the year they leave that show for England to co-star in "Anonymous Love," a motion picture for Producer Lewis Mendall.

This doesn't end Betty and Larry's connection with "Bells Are Ringing." After they finish their London picture they will take "Bells" on tour in the USA. Judy and Sidney are expected to do the show in London, unless, of course, Columbia beckons her back to Hollywood.

At the time Elisabeth Mueller, the Swiss actress who co-starred with Robert Taylor in "The Power and the Prize," was here, we all thought she was another Garbo or Bergman, she is so beautiful. Although she received great personal notices in her first Hollywood role, nothing more has been done about another picture.

Currently she is touring Europe in "The Merchant of Venice" as Portia. Word comes now that she was married Friday to Michael Audley, Jean Negulesco's dialogue director, in Frankfurt, Germany.

Lions Advertise Own Animal Act

FROSTBURG—Barking dogs and Hollywood muffers are often charged with keeping people awake in Frostburg. To say the very least, however, it is a bit unusual for a family to be kept awake by the roaring of lions in this part of the county.

Several families who live on South Water Street Extended had this unusual experience one night this week. The carnival which is showing at Community Ball Park under the auspices of the Frostburg Lions Club, has a lion act on its program.

For some reason the four lions apparently became homesick or dependent and roared loud and dolefully at an hour when the people on South Water Street are usually doing their own snoring.

Undergoes Surgery

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. J. Edmund Getty, 113 Church Street, who underwent surgery in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, is doing nicely.

Mrs. F. W. Wilson, Central Avenue, Ridgeley, has returned from Alexandria, Va., where she attended the funeral of her brother Clyde Shank, a veteran of World War I who was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Ernest B. Treat, 704 Piedmont Avenue, has returned home from Sacred Heart Hospital after being a surgical patient for one week.

The nail-biting habit can usually be broken when little lasses are appealed to subtly!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Nail-Biting

Worse than merely affecting her poise and looks, nail-biting can actually do lasting damage to a little girl's hands. It can result in permanently stubby fingers and nails.

To put a prevention plan into operation, first enlist the aid of someone outside the family who is highly admired by your small lass—a teacher, glamour teen or aunt. Prompt this confederate to give the child a really grown-up manicure kit and accompany it with a card to this effect, "I hope you have fun with this kit and that using it will make your hands as lovely and as charming as they deserve to be."

Nail-Biting Cure

An appeal to her pride? You bet, and it's just the sort of flattery a young girl strives to earn. "Meanwhile, bite your tongue if necessary to keep from ever saying, 'Stop biting your nails.' But do show your lass how to make the most of her gift. Make a game of giving her manicures, oil soak and all. You might also give her a charm bracelet—a dime store model is fine if it's one she'd like to show others. When she shows off her bracelet, her hands show off too and she'll be quicker to catch the implication than you might dream.

Nail Pointers

For greatest results, bear these points in mind. 1. When nail or cuticle is bitten to the quick, rub mentholatum into the sore spots. This will feel so comforting the child will learn to do it herself and thus become more nail conscious. 2. Since television watchers are notable nail biters, slather fingers in oil and encase them in tiny thimbles when the set's on. If you can get away with it, that is!

3. Jagged spots induce biting so keep them smooth with an emery. 4. Colorless polish prevents rough nail surfaces; appeals to young ladies, too! 5. Don't fail to give praise when it's due.

Your reward will be in your child's eventual progress. Hers will be in a lifetime of lovely hands.

FRONT and CENTER!

Front and center in this little community stands the Church.

Your church may not be so centrally located but all that it stands for is front and center in your community life:

The worship of the God who made us and all that exists...

The teaching of love and unselfishness as the highest good for all men...

The preaching of the worth and dignity of each individual...

The motivation for service in the community...

The battle against evil in high places and low...

Your community needs the Church and all that it stands for—front and center! And the Church needs you!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Public Invited To Inspect New Filter Plant

Westernport Unit Open Tomorrow

WESTERNPORT — Sunday is the date set by the Mayor and Commissioners of Westernport for inspection by the public of the town's new filtration plant on Chestnut Street. Hours are from 1 to 9 p.m.

Printed invitations have been mailed to county officials, the mayors and councils of nearby communities and to all local people who participated in any way in the long chain of events that led to the final completion of the plant.

The Mayor and Commissioners will work out a schedule of hours so that one or more will be present at the plant during the hours of inspection to welcome the visitors.

Water from the Savage river dam has been flowing through the filters at the new plant for more than a week but the mechanism which adds alum, activated carbon and lime has not yet been placed in operation. This operation was delayed pending the arrival here of technical men from Glace and Glace, engineers, and the Roberts Filter Company.

The Mayor and Commissioners agreed that Bernard Guy, operator of the plant, is sufficiently familiar with the operation to start these machines. They authorized him to put them in operation.

Operation of the chlorinator at the filtration plant is being held up for a short time until a final understanding with the Maryland Department of Health is reached. Chlorine is still being added to the water at the old chlorinator located at the Savage River Dam.

Riders will be dressed in white with a county color stripe and sash. Lances will be nine feet long and the poles will be 90 feet apart. The knights will ride three times at one and one-half inch rings and ties will be decided with one inch, three-quarter inch and one-half inch rings.

Prizes and trophies will be awarded for the queen, first maid, second maid, third maid and horsemanship.

Competing in the tournament will be George E. Fisher, Knight of Just For Fun; William N. Fisher, Knight of Would If I Could; John Waddy, Knight of Fort George; George W. Fisher, Knight of Never Before; John Fowman, Knight of South Fork; Junior Bean, Knight of Inkerman; Renick McNeill, Knight of Old Fields; Bill Harper, Knight of Green Valley; Courtney Pratt, Knight of Hardy; Ralph Pratt, Knight of Clay Hill; Adam Fisher, Knight of Silver Bend; Oran Wolfe, Knight of Old Hampshire; Maxwell Whipp, Morris Whipp, Ronald Patterson, Jack Smith and R. R. Kuykendall.

The tournament is a revival of the contests held in the South Branch Valley before the advent of the automobile. According to legend, one of the most famous tournament riders was Turner Ashby, Fauquier County, Va., later one of the South's most brilliant generals in the Civil War.

In an article, "Modern Knights of the Tourney," published in the West Virginia Review in September, 1931, C. B. Allen says in part, "A short distance away, men, women, and children are massed in two walls of holiday-seeking humanity a few feet from either side of a dusty bridge path, which a thousand hoofs bats have worn in the sod of the glade. Like wickets for a giants' croquet game, three sets of wooden uprights and cross-bar bracket this track at 30-foot intervals.

Midland Urged To Collect Own Garbage

Health Officials Act On Protests

MIDLAND — The Allegany County Health Department is urging strongly that a garbage collection system be placed into operation at Midland.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners has been notified by the health department of garbage being dumped into Georges Creek.

There are also strong objections to the practice of residents of the Midland area dumping garbage along state and county roads.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, noted that the State Roads Commission and the County Roads Department has complained about the cost of collecting this home refuse that is left along highways.

The health department informed the Mayor and Council of Midland that it is large enough to have a garbage collection system.

The department advised the town council to draw up regulations against dumping this refuse and put them into effect.

In a letter to the Midland officials, the health department said it will take definite steps to have such a system put into operation.

Protests have been received from Westernport, which received the brunt of the debris where the creek empties into the Potomac River.

Frostburgers Launch Plan For Industry

New Plant Seeks Area Location

FROSTBURG — A group of 25 persons consisting of members of the Industrial Promotion Committee, the Mayor and City Commissioners and a number of ladies who have volunteered to aid with the campaign to acquaint the people of Frostburg with the facts of the undergarment factory proposal, met in City Hall to map plans for the drive.

William Preston explained to the group how he felt the project should be launched. He stated that "a number of the people of our city are still laboring under the impression that this new proposal is being made by the same company that was involved in the earlier campaigns to raise funds."

"The first move necessary, Preston pointed out, is to tell the facts of the case, and explain to them that this manufacturer is definitely interested in locating his factory in Frostburg.

The company will pay three per cent interest on the bonds issued to build the new factory, and will refund the principal within 20 or 25 years, he said.

After some discussion a plan of action was agreed upon. A committee of three was appointed to confer with representatives of the press. The next meeting will be held Wednesday.

Bragan Is Reported Fired, Murtaugh May Be Successor

Pittsburgh Manager Will Be Released Today, Paper Says

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said tonight it had learned from a reliable source that Bobby Bragan will be fired tomorrow morning as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The newspaper quoted the unnamed source as saying Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown will announce Bragan's firing at a press conference in Chicago where the Pittsburgh club currently is playing the Cubs.

Danny Murtaugh, present Pirate coach and former infielder, will succeed Bragan for the balance of the season, the Post-Gazette said it learned.

Brown reportedly flew to Chicago today to see the Pirates play Pittsburgh lost its sixth straight game, 6-4.

The Post-Gazette story said Brown "reportedly had Bragan's firing in mind for more than a week."

Brown hired Bragan Nov. 2, 1955, and rehired him for another season last Nov. 20.

The Rotary Club and the B.P.O. Elks continued to run neck-and-neck in the Hot Stove League pennant race by scoring victories yesterday.

Manager Joe Gallen's pace-setting Rotarians defeated the Jaycees at Fort Hill Field, 4-2, while the Elks, trailing by one game, blanked the Kiwanis Club last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 10-0 on a one-hitter by Donnie Nave.

In the afternoon tilt the Rotarians scored all their runs in the first four innings while Melvin Nines sailed along to his fourth consecutive pitching triumph. Nines was forced to retire in favor of Manges in the 4th inning because of the league ruling limiting a pitcher to seven innings a week. Both Nines and Manges whiffed five batsmen.

Nines with a homer and single and Jimmy Rice with a double and single sparked Rotary at the plate. Clarence Kean smacked a pair of singles for the Jaycees.

Mike Aaron, Jaycees pitcher, struck out a total of 17. He fanned the side in the first, second and third frames and whiffed two batsmen in each of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh stanzas.

Nave pitched a one-hitter, fanned 15 and hammered a homer and two-bagger in the Elks' victory. His circuit belt was a grand slammer and came in the 6th during a nine-run explosion.

Nave was forced to quit in the 7th due to the 7-inning rule and Roger Growden finished on the rubber. Growden also obtained two hits for the Elks. Bosley had the Kiwanians' lone safety.

A shoestring catch by Ray Redinger in left field of a drive from the bat of Brotemarkle was the fielding highlight.

Judge Studies Argument In Murder Case

KEYSER — Judge Ernest A. See yesterday took under advisement pleas that Clarence Simms, Keyser, was improperly indicted for the murder of his eight-week-old daughter on the basis that Negroes are systematically excluded from the jury list in Mineral County.

Attorneys H. R. Athey and Charles W. Smith, appointed by the court to represent the 22-year-old Negro, asked that the indictment be quashed on that basis last Friday. Judge See set yesterday for arguments. It has been indicated that the murder trial probably would not be held until the October term of court.

Vernon E. Rankin, a former Mineral County prosecuting attorney, testified that he was not certain whether a Negro served on a grand jury during his approximately 16 years in office over an extended period. James A. Dixon, clerk of Mineral County Circuit Court, informed court that Horace Lewis Negro of the New Creek District, had served on the April grand jury of 1954.

Dixon also perused the list of jurors for the present term of court and tentatively identified several names as being those of Negroes, although he did not definitely state that they were of that race.

Two jury commissioners, Ervin Bane of RD 4, and Harry Oss of Keyser, each denied that there was any discrimination against Negroes in selecting juries.

Oss said that in the 1930s at least five to six used to be called for jury service, but that the number was reduced because of complaints from both colored and white residents of Mineral County.

Oss further stated that if Negroes were selected on the basis of population only two at the most would be called for a term of court. He also informed court that he had asked residents of the county to furnish him with names of Negroes who would make "good jurors."

Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott informed court that he would "rather have the indictment set aside and have Simms re-indicted at the October term of court" to avoid criticism.

Test Run Made At Evitts Creek

A two-hour running test of the Evitts Creek pumping station was made yesterday. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz reported.

He said the station will be operated for about 12 hours today and will be placed into full service Monday if it passes its shake-down run.

The unit, he said, picks up sewage from East Side sewer lines and sends it, by a force main, to the main treatment plant.

It is equipped with three pumps on as many levels. Each pump cuts in automatically when the sewage rises to its level.

Mr. Buchholz said that although the station is completely automatic, he will have men from the staff watching it for a few nights.

The main plant, he added, continued to function satisfactorily yesterday.

Rotruck Heads Church Youth

Seven youth cabinet officers and their adult counsellors attended the two-day retreat sessions. The group made plans for an extensive youth program for Church of the Brethren youth during the coming year.

The first in a series of round-table meetings, held on the second Sunday of each quarter, will be October 13 in Westport.

Among those on the 10-member cabinet from this area are Gail Ellifritz, Ridgeley, witness chairman, and Olive Sines, Cresaptown, citizenship chairman.

The adult counsellors for the cabinet are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dixon of Eglon, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Paul DeWitt of Oakland, Rev. Clarence Moyers, Grantsville, and Rev. Fred Bowman, Keyser.

Former Local Man Heads Industrial Plastics Society

A former local man, C. Russell Mahaney now of Scarsdale, N. Y., with offices in New York City, has been elected president and director of the Society of Plastics Industry, Inc.

Mr. Mahaney, who left here a number of years ago, lived on First Street and graduated from Allegany County High School on Greene Street. He later attended West Virginia University, where he taught a short time after graduation. While working his way through school, he was employed in the summer as a messenger for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and also worked for Truitt's Drug Store on Virginia Avenue here.

He is now vice president and a director of the St. Regis Paper Company in New York City, and is general manager in charge of the firm's plastic "pan-elyte" division. Prior to joining the paper company he had worked a short time for Westinghouse Electric in Pittsburgh.

An account of his progress and success in the paper and plastics field appeared recently in national trade publications. Mr. Mahaney has a number of relatives in Cumberland.

Horn Named To Celanese Post

C. Fletcher Horn, Charlotte, N. C., former resident of Cumberland and an official at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation, has received a promotion to assistant to the general manager of the Textile Division.

Horn will also serve as chairman of the coordinating committee of the division, in addition to his duties assistant to John W. Brooks, general manager.

Since October 1, 1953, he has been chairman of the coordinating committee and also assistant manager of plant operations.

Horn came to Amcelle Plant July 9, 1940, after receiving a bachelor of science degree in textile manufacturing from Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He was assigned to finished fabric examination.

December 1, 1941, he entered military service, and December 19, 1945 he returned from the Army. During that period he was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in North Africa. He attained the rank of captain.

He returned to Amcelle as head of the finished fabric examination department, and February 8, 1947, was assigned to the dyehouse technical staff, as superintendent of the winch and jig department.

He is married to the former Miss Jessie Hewitt, of this city. Their two children are in Cumberland visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rayburn, 707 Louisiana Avenue.

County Employee Quits Because Of Air Conditioner

An air conditioner has caused an employee in the County Finance Department to submit her resignation.

Her letter notifying the Board of Allegany County Commissioners of her resignation effective Wednesday was read and accepted at the board's meeting yesterday.

Thelma L. McIlwee, a clerk, stenographer in the office, since August 15, 1956, said that she was quitting because of her inability to withstand the effects of the air conditioner where her desk was located.

She said it caused her to suffer from swollen glands, ear ache and intestinal flu. "Attempts to relocate my desk to correct the situation have proven to be unsuccessful," she added.

Liquor Board Grants Package Store Permit

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners has granted a license to John R. Murphy and Betty Jo Murphy, his wife, for a package liquor store at 236 Baltimore Avenue.

The business will be known as Murphy's Liquor Store. The license was previously held by Andy Santore.

man) Lindner, have been separated by a rule which forbids more than four members of a family to be stationed in any one province of the religious order.

The meeting of the sisters will also result in a family reunion since Mr. Lindner and his six other children plan to visit the nuns at St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore.

The nuns in the order's Eastern Province are Sister Madeline (Anna Margaret Lindner), who is stationed at St. Mary's Parochial School in Troy, N. Y., and who has been a member of the order 24 years.

Sister Florence (Florence Lindner) has been in the order 23 years and is stationed at SS. John and Joseph Home, an orphanage run by the Daughters of Charity in Utica, N. Y.

Sister Clare (Regina Lindner) is assigned to St. Agnes Hospital. She has 20 years service as a Sister of Charity. Also in Baltimore is Sister Regina (Teresa Lindner), a member of the faculty of St. John's Parochial School who has completed ten years in the order.

The member of the family who is in the Western Province is Sister Mary John (Frances Lindner), who has 12 years in the order. She has been stationed at St. Catherine Labourer High School, St. Louis, but is scheduled for reassignment, according to members of her family, who said this was a major factor in her being able to be reunited with her sisters after nearly a quarter of a century.

Approximately 30 members of the Lindner family are expected to visit the nuns on Sunday. Making the trip, besides the father, will be the following children, and their families:

Mrs. Anthony J. (Marie) Yokkus, Miss Loretta Lindner, James J. Lindner, Michael L. Lindner, Philip E. Lindner and John V. Lindner.

The Unsolved Crime: Suicide

Experts know a great deal about and advance many theories on the probable causes of murder, robbery, rape, juvenile delinquency and many other facets of crime. But there is one crime about which little is said, although it ranks among the top causes of violent death.

This crime is suicide. Suicide is an important crime not only because of the moral or religious aspects involved, but because the desire of individuals to take their own lives may hold the key to the many other violent deaths occurring each year.

More than 16,000 suicides were recorded in the U. S. in 1955, compared with 7,840 homicides. This fact in itself should promote more attention to be focused on the behavior of an individual which leads to his self-destruction. But the 16,000 figure does not tell the whole story of suicide in the United States.

Because of the moral and religious stigmas attached to suicide, many such cases are undoubtedly not recorded. Then, too, it is difficult to determine what percentage of other violent deaths, including the 40,000 annual automobile deaths, are caused by a conscious or sub-conscious desire to end life. Medical and safety authorities are almost unanimous in the belief that some percentage of all categories of violent death are in reality suicides.

Upon recognizing this fact, it becomes obvious that many innocent lives are being placed in jeopardy by those determined to destroy themselves. For this reason, if for no other, there is an urgent need to discover and correct the deficiencies in modern society which foster such wholesale self-destruction.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The New Politics

The inner sickness of the Republican Party is identical with the inner sickness of the Democratic Party, namely, that they have each ceased to be distinct and separate political organizations except on the local level. Whereas they may battle fiercely over the election of a mayor of a town or the governor of a state, there is no heart for a real fight over great international or national issues.

The dissipation of identity is not so much the achievement of President Eisenhower, who, it may be recalled, was told that he would be nominated by both parties by the businessmen who went to Paris to implore him to be a candidate. It is the inevitable result of Stalin's maneuvers against the United States in the international field. No one can make a partisan issue of the atom bomb or the hydrogen bomb or the destruction of the British Empire by slow attrition.

There is another factor in all this, namely, the newness and unbelieveability of issues and names. For instance, Egypt is an old country but it had never become a factor in American politics until Nasser made Egypt a Russian satellite and put in peril the economics of the world. This is a tough one for politicians to debate because few of them have any preparation for it.

Yet the fact is that Egypt and the Suez Canal form a bridge among the three continents, Europe, Asia and Africa; Egypt dominates geographically the crescent of fertility on the edge of the Arabian Desert and it influences the greeland to the north of the Sahara Desert. It could, if only geography mattered, be the controlling state of the Mediterranean. That it never has played this role is again economics; it has usually been conquered and held by aliens from somewhere in Asia or Europe.

These geophysical matters have become even more complicated by such physical developments as the airplane and the world search for fuels and the struggle between socialist and capitalist economies.

In a word, the simple ways of life that mankind has known for centuries, first detonated by the discovery of Chinese gunpowder and then by the British discovery of the use of steam—these simple ways are now going through a universal revolution which takes on different manifestations in different countries.

For instance, Saudi Arabia, a heretofore poor country and never very significant even in the rise of Arabic culture, is now among the richest nations on Earth because of its enormous accumulation of oil. Oil has become an item for international consideration and even for war. How can a Republican Party or a Democratic Party build a campaign platform on the issue of oil in Kuwait or oil in Iran and what should be American policy thereabout?

And then there is the subject of uranium and thorium and all sorts of new minerals, some of which are found in the oddest and most unexpected places, and all of which alter international relations. For instance, Soviet Russia must take a dim view of Hungarian independence, not because the Hungarians will be able, in modern times, to be independent but because of Hungary's mineral content which Russia not only covets but means to possess.

It is the fact that Soviet Russia exists as a warlike and imperialist power that both the Republican Party and the Democratic Party have lost control of any issues concerning war and peace, disarmament, big navy or big air force or any such matters. These have now moved out of politics and into the realm of technology.

This much is certain: no country wants war but at least Soviet Russia and the United States must be prepared for war. But even this is complicated by the evidence that thermonuclear bombs are easy to make and are comparatively cheap and that effective political damage can be done by one bomb as by one hundred bombs. That is, effective political damage can be done by hurling one bomb at New York or one bomb at Moscow. Those cities would be literally fried. Therefore, the small, the weak and backward nations, held by gutter-trained dictators, can do as much damage as the great ones.

It is, for this reason, that when the political parties get away from local issues, they avoid finding a case to state.

Between Rounds

Triple Talk In The Atomic Weapons Club

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

The basic confusion hag-riding the disarmament talks has only been underlined by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' hasty trip to London. The confusion comes from talking about three different subjects at once.

The first of these subjects, actual disarmament, gives the London negotiations their title. A wholly unilateral, entirely budget-motivated and probably extremely dangerous disarmament program is now being carried out by the British and American governments. But that is the only kind of serious disarmament that is now in prospect.

The second of these subjects, aerial inspection, provided the main motive of the Dulles journey. This was because the idea of an aerial inspection was President Eisenhower's personal baby. The President's first bold proposal has now shrunk to a plan for air inspection of a zone in Europe, on either side of the line dividing the NATO forces from the armies under Soviet control. This both sides inspection may give some warning against surprise attack.

But both the French and the Germans deeply fear that the establishment of such an air inspection zone will cause "Europe to be neutralized." The NATO staff is decidedly hostile. Thus Secretary Dulles had to hurry to London to see that the President's personal baby got the tender care that any Eisenhower baby, however deformed, naturally deserves in an Eisenhower administration.

Given the circumstances, it still seems highly unlikely that an aerial inspection system will in fact be set up. And that leaves the third subject of these London talks, which is the only subject offering much immediate hope of practical agreement. This is the subject of eventual cessation of nuclear and thermonuclear bomb tests.

The "disarmament" negotiations have been wildly confused by triple-talk. So too the subject of the cessation of nuclear tests has been wildly confused by double-talk. In particular, the cessation of bomb tests has always been publicly advocated on the sole ground that continuing tests will be dangerous, because of the menace of nuclear fallout.

But in fact what all the negotiators in London have in mind is not the danger of nuclear fallout. It is, rather, the simple fact that if all nuclear tests are halted now, the membership list of the atomic weapons club will be effectively closed.

Equally, an agreement on cessation of tests is a practical possibility, not because everyone is fearful of the fallout danger. It is a practical possibility, rather, because everyone realizes that a kind of world nightmare will begin when atomic weapons are available to any nation on earth, however small, obsessed and irresponsible.

The Soviets are behind the United States in nuclear weapons testing and development. Yet they want to keep Germany and other powers out of the atomic club at all costs. Thus Valerian

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Old Bob Buckley of Palo Alto cops Odd McIntyre's caper of writing post-cards in red ink marked private.

Bob says he read in the paper that baseball had permitted Willie Keeler to check out in poverty. Willie's recipe for a 417 batting average in 1897 was to hit 'em where they ain't.

Willie was with Baltimore at the time. Thirty years later his remark gave me the opportunity to add that Babe Ruth hit 'em where they were never going to be.

So I love Willie and would feel bad about his tough time in life's field. He went from his terrific batting in Baltimore to Brooklyn and then to the American League.

In 1903 Willie crashed the Brooklyn Bridge to the Yanks. He was with them seven full seasons but never could move those planks in the lumberyard with Lajoie and Cobb.

Bob's three-cent tombstone reads like Keeler just kicked out in squalor and suffering. Willie actually died celebrating Broadway's 1910 New Year. That was forty-seven years ago. We have reason to suspect Willie wasn't drinking toasts out of a bird bath.

If he made the rounds from Bustanoby's, Rector's, Churchill's and the other posh-terias it could have been possible Bob is right.

Willie might have died broke if he picked up the checks. And no ballplayer did that until Babe Ruth came along.

Rearing Tots By Doing What Comes Naturally

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many mothers fail to realize that doing what comes naturally is a good way to care for their babies. Newborn infants cannot be expected to realize they have come into a world of rules and regulations. Their behavior is guided by certain instincts that have not changed throughout the ages.

Primitive man could not have survived if his hiding place had been disclosed by the wailing of a child. Mothers did their part by keeping the baby quiet through nursing, "cuddling," and warding off intruders. All this gave youngsters the sense of security and comfort that nature intended.

In studying the baby that cries more than usual, Dr. David McL. Greeley of Harlan, Ky., found that the parents of these tots had much in common. Their youngsters were healthy and were neither allergic nor neglected. Husband and wife were well educated and had designed their lives carefully. They were well versed in psychology and were determined not to fail. The mother read health books and columns and was not going to make the mistakes her parents had made.

But all this, Dr. Greeley writes, made them too idealistic and inflexible. They insisted upon having everything they had read about, without realizing that some of the ideas were not practical or possible, in their particular case. This included the use of anesthesia in the delivery room and breast feeding.

Arrangements were made to have a nurse take charge of the household after the baby was born. So long as the new mother's glorified plans went according to Hoyle she was happy. But the odds were against it and, as a result, she became confused and anxious.

Her baby came a week early and the nurse was unable to take over right away. When she came on duty, she had ideas of her own that conflicted with those of the mother. The ensuing turmoil was sensed by the infant. The longer and louder the tyke screamed, the more frustrated and worried the mother became. She was certain the baby was ill even though the physician found nothing wrong.

Meanwhile, the constant crying interfered with the husband's work and the landlord and neighbors began complaining. The lesson to be learned is that good sense goes a long way in rearing children.

NECK RIBS

Mrs. J. M. writes: Several years ago a doctor told me I had cervical ribs and that they may cause paralysis in my arms some day. Is this common?

REPLY No. These diminutive ribs, located in the neck, occasionally press upon nerves or blood vessels leading to the arm. This pressure may cause pain in the

Federal Drought Aid Is Doled Out More Liberally In Election Years

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—If you want to see how politics is played by Secretary Benson and his boys regarding drought relief, take a look at the official figures issued by the Department of Agriculture. They show that in election years relief to the drought-stricken states zoomed way up. In non-election years, drought relief dropped way down.

Here are the figures: In 1954, a Congressional election year, the feed program to disaster areas was 58,221,373 hundred-weight of feed. The hay program cost the Treasury $9,900,000.

Next year, 1955, was a non-election year. Benson's boys apparently weren't too much worried about drought. In that year the feed program dropped from 58,000,000 cwt. to only 15,101,799 cwt. of feed. The hay program dropped from almost $10,000,000 to only $100,000.

The next year, 1956, however, was the big election year to put Ike back in office. In that year, the feed program zoomed way up again, even higher than in the last election year. It topped 70,780,961 cwt. of feed. The hay program doubled 1954 with a total of $18,944,500.

But that wasn't all. There was discrimination between certain states which were for Ike and those not for Ike. Senator Symington, Democrat of Missouri, has pointed out that, although Missouri suffered probably more than any other state from the drought, it failed to get drought relief. There was little difference between Missouri and Kansas, as far as the drought was concerned, but a great deal of difference politically.

Just across the border in Kansas they voted for Eisenhower. East of the border in Missouri they voted for Adlai Stevenson. Missouri was the only middle west state which voted for Stevenson and which also has two Democratic Senators.

It happened that two governors of Missouri applied for drought relief, one a Republican, the other a Democrat, but Missouri was not put on the disaster list of states. Kansas was, but Missouri wasn't. Sometimes politics pays.

Bigotry Doesn't Pay

In the closing days of last year's Colorado race between ex-Gov. Dan Thornton, close friend of President Eisenhower, and ex-Congressman John Carroll for the Senate, an anonymous campaign circular appeared in Denver attacking Catholic candidates on the Democratic ticket, including Carroll who is a Pote-tant but married to a Catholic.

U. S. Attorney Donald E. Kelley issued a warrant for the arrest of Clarence W. Stafford, former Republican city Councilman and close friend of Dan Thornton's. Stafford was arraigned the day before election and charged with violating a federal statute which prohibits anonymous campaign literature.

On Election Day, the literature boomeranged. Three out of the four candidates attacked in the circular were elected. Dan Thornton, who never lost a statewide race before, was defeated by Carroll by a margin of 3,000 votes—a defeat that gave the Democrats control of the Senate, 49 to 47.

Sequel: The other day Stafford and E. Page Wingate quietly slipped into Federal Court in Denver and admitted responsibility for the circulars. They pleaded guilty. Bigotry doesn't pay in American politics.

Backstage Barter

It's amazing how far the natural gas Congressmen will go to barter votes for the gas bill. The backstage dealing has already begun.

Congressman Oren Harris of Arkansas, who's determined to ram the bill through Congress, has devised a neat piece of bait for southeast Congressmen. They are anxious to pass a little-noticed textile bill which would duplicate the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 by requiring the contents of cotton and synthetic fabrics to be identified in labels and advertising. This would also require "reprocessed" cotton to be clearly marked when used a second time in clothing and other products.

The textile bill was written by Rep. Frank Smith of Mississippi, who figures it will boost sales of cotton fiber and fabrics. Smith has let it be known that if Harris of Arkansas will give a push to the textile bill, southern Congressmen may push Harris's natural gas bill.

Harris himself, who is Chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, has already delivered on a promise to rescue the textile bill from a Commerce subcommittee headed by Rep. Peter Mack of Illinois. Smith's bill has gathered dust in the subcommittee ever since last April, but Harris used his powers as chairman to take the Smith bill away from the subcommittee just two days after the natural gas bill was approved by the full Commerce Committee on July 9.

Harris held full Committee sessions on the Smith bill on July 11 and 12 and hopes to have it before the Rules Committee shortly, ready for a vote by the full House.

Congressman Smith still has not definitely agreed to deliver his bloc of cotton votes to Harris in return for higher natural gas prices. He's biding his time to see how many votes Harris can corral to help the cotton states first.

Under The Dome

Victor Kramer, who soon will leave Justice's Antitrust Division for private law practice, is the only one who ever argued a case before the Supreme Court in a sailor's uniform. During World War II, Kramer was given special leave by the Navy to assist in a Justice Department antitrust argument.

Much respected veteran GOP Rep. "Pat" Kearney of New York will retire from Congress next year. . . . House doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who introduces the President and other prominent guests to joint sessions of Congress, got his nickname in Mississippi, where it was said he "wasn't big enough to bait a fishhook."

Pioneering

By Brother Barnabas

The bronze statue of the sun-bonneted pioneer mother and child at Ponca City is an emblem of the Pioneering spirit that pervades the Sooner State.

It is always true that in the development of virgin territory there must be a lot of neighborliness, a lot of political theorizing, backing and filling, to keep the Ship of State on an even keel, and a lot of give-and-take to keep the religionists on lovable terms while divided in their creeds and rituals.

Religion, strange to say, is about the most divisive force we have in any given community. We go to school, to the factory, to the voting booth at a given signal, but when the Church bell rings we go our separate ways.

There are so many splinter groups in Oklahoma that people are known by their sect rather than by their names. You meet a man and you say, "I have forgotten your name, but your faith is familiar."

The other day while in a vagrant mood my stream of consciousness went zigzagging with the Washita (source of Chickasha's water supply) and it ran into some choice ecclesiastical bons mots which show how some people think and feel when untrammelled by orthodoxy.

"How many people around here enjoy religion?" asked an uppish young man as he poked his head out of the window of a coach on a Southern railway at a small station stop.

A beaming rotund colored woman replied: "All them as has it duz."

"Do you believe in Infant Baptism?" "I sure do, I have seen it done."

"How do you know you were converted, Auntie?" "I was there when it happened."

In times of drought should people gather to pray for rain? Yes, if they bring their umbrellas.

In Oklahoma they vote as they pray. That's why there are so many Democrats.

In a certain community a distillery had become a public nuisance, and the preacher prayed that it might be destroyed. A bolt of lightning fell and it was burned to the ground.

The owner brought suit. The Judge quashed the suit on the ground that the Chief Witness could not be subpoenaed.

Such generalities as the above are straws showing that the winds of heaven are blowing but their energy is lost because it is not in production. It might be pumping water to irrigate the desert places.

Excessive non-productive unsupervised denominationalism is sinful waste.

The World Almanac lists 238 Religious Bodies in America, of which Chickasha has its quota of upwards of seventy. Some are infinitesimally small. I noted one having 16 churches with a total membership of 201.

No one can question their right to be, under Art. I of the Bill of Rights: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

This deponent has no brief for uniting religious bodies. The movement must begin with the grass roots and work up to the hierarchy.

Some like their religion hot, some like it cold. Some like it with vestments and icons; others prefer overalls.

Some want the "old-time religion" that was "good for Paul and Silas"; others would want to extend it to the Boardwalk, Congress and Hollywood.

The writer would like to send up a trial balloon to meet the impasse. Exercising his Constitutional prerogative he would like to propose another denomination, making it Number 259.

The platform will be: "We've done things we ought not to have done, and we have left undone those things we ought to have done."

The name of the new Church will be the "Holier Than Thou." There will be no dues, for "filthy lucre" will be verboten. Trading stamps will be used for money.

No clergymen will be needed, for the laymen will do the preaching. It will not be shocking if the preacher will read the morning lesson from "Puzzlums 46" (Psalms 46), or from the 21st chapter of Revelations, the last book in the Bible, Guinnesses being the first.

At the close of the service the "bored" will remain. All may join. Maybe this will be the entente cordiale that will bring us together, thinks

Tweeds, predict fashioneers, will replace the now traditional gray flannel suit for business

Board Grants Hauling Rights

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday granted a permit to Estates Development Company to cross Cash Valley Road with heavy construction equipment.

The firm wants to haul fill materials in a large pan-type carrier pulled by a bulldozer across the road to a cemetery site.

However, the county commissioners issued the permit, but with a number of reservations. The hauling will be confined to a 30-day period.

Signs, a watchman and lights at night to protect the motoring public during this time must be maintained, and the county commissioners are to be protected from any suits arising from injuries resulting from this work.

Any repair to the road and ditches necessary after the hauling is completed must be handled by Estates Development.

If it does not comply with this work in five days, the County Roads Department is to make the repairs and bill the firm.

Pidgin English, now considered a language in its own right, was once used by traders in the South seas.

Rate Charges For Sewage Service To Start In Fall

Although the city's new sewage treatment plant is expected to go into operation soon, rate charges for service are not expected to begin before November.

The opinion was expressed by city auditor Arthur B. Gibson who with finance commissioner John J. Long and city attorney Thomas B. Finan are preparing the schedules and necessary ordinances.

It was explained that the city is already a month into this quarter of the fiscal year. The next quarter begins October 1 but under the "staggered" system of billing by the Water Department which will be followed in connection with sewage fees, it appears unlikely that they will begin until a month after the start of the next quarter.

Ordinances for the charge are to be drawn by Finan.

Final acceptance of the new $2,000,000 plant in South End is expected within a week or 10 days.

City Must Get Armory Land

The city has about 30 days in which to obtain property needed by the Military Department of Maryland as a site for a new National Guard Armory in the Ridgedale section of West Side.

It was learned yesterday that options have been obtained on all but three parcels and these are under negotiation.

Should the city be unable to complete negotiations for these properties, the state has the power of condemnation, a step which it is reported reluctant to take.

When the city has optioned all the properties necessary, data is to be forwarded to the Military Department which will in turn request federal assistance for the project.

Meanwhile, fate of the old Armory on South Centre Street is undecided. The city has first choice on the site but there have been reports that a local service-men's organization is interested in the location and would be agreeable to use of a part of the building for public functions.

It has been suggested previously that the city take over the old Armory as a recreational center and possible convention site. However, the city is under no obligation to acquire the property.

City officials say there should be no trouble in disposing of the property.

County Board Gets Finance Report

The report of the county treasurer for the quarter ending June 30 was filed with the Board of Allegany County Commissioners today.

It shows a cash balance was on hand March 31 of $597,547. Receipts, including $1,000,000 of 1957 taxes paid in advance, totaled $2,276,874.

Other large receipts were $181,066 from state income taxes, $151,370 from state gas taxes, $117,331 from auto licenses, and $68,113 for liquor licenses.

Disbursements and general government expenditures during the three months totaled $649,079. Listed as outstanding in county taxes outstanding is $70,315.

8 Men Will Be Drafted

Thirty-six registrants of Selective Service Boards 27, 28 and 29 will leave from the Post Office on Tuesday, August 13, for the Induction Center at Fairmont, W. Va., according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinator of the draft boards.

Eight of the young men will be reporting for induction into the armed forces, while the other 28 will be given the physical examinations necessary prior to any induction call.

Reporting for induction from Board 27 will be David Lynn VanGosen, 28 Oak Street, and Walter Clarence Harper, 724 Elm Street. Board 28 will send Ronald Edward Chapman, 527 Henderson Avenue; John George Kyllus, 433 Henderson Avenue, and Robert Glenn Coghill, 216 Beall Street.

Inducted from Board 29 will be Richard Monroe Darr Jr., now of Detroit, but formerly of RD 3, Keyser; Samuel Edward Lease, Cresaptown, and Otis Lee Trost, Pinto.

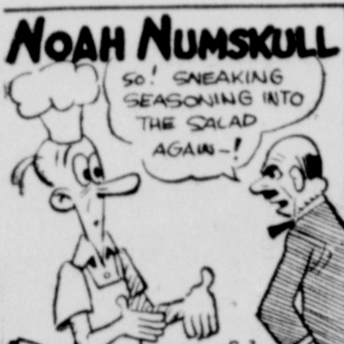

Scheduled for physicals are ten youths registered at Board 27, and nine each from Boards 28 and 29.

The groups will leave by chartered bus, Fahey said, with 7 a. m. being the time of departure.

The induction call is one of the largest in recent months, as is the number who will receive physicals, according to Fahey who said that was the reason why a bus was chartered. Registrants ordinarily leave for Fairmont by the regular bus schedule, he explained.

Upsurge By Rail Shares Features Mixed Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) - Rail shares rallied late today, inspiring a slack stock market to produce enough gainers to make the pattern irregular instead of lower.

The upsurge by rails in the closing minutes was the only outstanding feature in a session which was the slowest since March 25 and the narrowest since March 22.

Aircrafts and chemicals were generally lower. Rubber shares were improved as prices for rubber products moved upward. Motors were mixed. Steels shaded.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 40 cents to $184.70 with the industrials up 20 cents, the rails up $1.30 and the utilities unchanged.

Among the 15 most active stocks there was an even split of 7 gainers and 7 losers, with one issue, Bethlehem Steel, unchanged.

Loew's was the most active stock, off 1/4 at 18 1/4 on 38,300 shares, off 1/2 to 18. The struggle for control of the movie firm has kept it a focal issue this week.

Second was American Water Works, up 1/4 at 11 on 29,300 shares. Third was Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton, up 1/4 at 14 1/4 on 17,300.

Gainers among the rails included Baltimore & Ohio 1/4, New York Central 1/4, Illinois Central 1/4, Southern Pacific 1/4, Chesapeake & Ohio 1/2 and Pennsylvania Railroad 1/4.

Plan Adopted For Merging AFL-CIO Units

Final Meeting Set Next Week

Over 4,000 members of labor unions in this area will be merged into the Western Maryland Labor Council, AFL-CIO, under an agreement reached here last night.

Merger delegates of the Allegheny Trades Council and the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council met at the Allegheny Labor Temple and agreed on major portions of the program which will be submitted to their organizations soon.

The committees will meet next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Labor Temple to complete the merger plan and to elect officers for the new area labor council.

The actual merger of the former AFL and CIO Councils, however, will be delayed until after the merger convention of the Maryland State and District of Columbia AFL-CIO.

State Merger Set

Labor officials this week were notified the merger convention will open September 6 at 9:30 a.m. in the Statler Hotel, Washington.

Officials of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor were told delegates will be the same as at the recent state convention, which recessed in June after approving merger plans.

The merger proposal worked out last night calls for the Allegheny Trades Council and the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council to join in a new unit to be called the Western Maryland Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

The area body will have jurisdiction over Allegheny and Garrett counties.

All locals now affiliated with either council will automatically become members of the new merged council which would automatically have a membership of about 4,100, almost equally divided between craft and industrial unions.

Adopt Officer Plan

Officers of the new council will include a president from a former AFL union, a vice president from the CIO, recording secretary, AFL, and secretary-treasurer from the CIO.

The sergeant-at-arms and trustees will be elected at large and the AFL and CIO share equally in the eight-member executive board.

The merger committee recommended that the new council have a per capita tax of two cents a month based on membership dues paid to international unions, with an affiliation fee of $5 for new units and dues of $10 a year for subordinate organizations.

Representation to the area council would be by two delegates for the first 100 members, an additional delegates for each 100 or major fraction up to 400, and one for each additional 400 or major fraction.

Formal details of the merger will be submitted by the merger committees at meetings of the AFL and CIO councils here after next week's meeting.

Read Agreement

C. E. Stutzman, state AFL vice president, presided at the meeting, and the AFL-CIO's Region 4 was represented by T. D. duCunno, Richmond, Va.

The AFL merger committee included Mr. Stutzman, F. Patrick Allender, president, and David L. Miller.

Representing the Industrial Union Council were C. D. McIntyre, president; Ralph C. Beard, Stanley Zorick, Joseph Burke, Harold Rigglesman and Earl D. Sills.

The details of the merger plan were worked out harmoniously and generally followed the plan which is up for adoption on the state level next month.

At present, the AFL Trades Council represents about 21 craft unions, and the Industrial Council six CIO locals of this area.

$5,500,000 Is Refunded To Md. Taxpayers

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP)—More than $5,500,000 in state income tax refunds have been mailed out this year to 420,000 Marylanders.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the Income Tax Division of the state comptroller's office, said today that between 50,000 and 60,000 tax refunds remain to be mailed.

Marsh said his office is handling about 5,000 per day and should have all refunds cleaned up in about two weeks.

Most of the refunds still to be mailed are for taxpayers who did not include all the required information on their returns, Marsh said. Tax division workers had to write and request additional information before the returns could be processed, he said.

The tax division chief estimated his office will process a total of 780,000 individual returns this year, including those with and without refunds.

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes said that about 1,000 refund checks totalling more than $12,000 have been returned to his office this year, most of them because the addressee had moved without leaving a forwarding address.

Last year 2,000 came back out of 190,000 sent. Tawes said about 700 of the unclaimed checks had been sent to Baltimore addressees. He estimated the average unclaimed check to be between $12 and $13.

Cars Will Roll Across Wooden Bridge Monday

Demolition Of 1916 Bridge Will Begin

Cars will start rolling over the temporary Baltimore Street Bridge Monday morning as crews move in to demolish the span which has carried traffic over Wills Creek since 1916.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, chief of the Traffic Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department, said everything is "ready to go."

Signs have been placed to mark temporary routes to be used by heavy vehicles while the new composite steel girder bridge is being erected by the Hazelwood Construction Company.

Approaches to the bridge were blacktopped yesterday in preparation for the use of the span. It will provide two traffic lanes and a pedestrian walkway.

The Hazelwood firm notified the city yesterday it is moving in equipment Monday morning to demolish the reinforced concrete bridge so it can begin on the foundations of the new bridge. The city passed the word along to utilities which will use the temporary bridge.

Cable splicers will be busy for some time yet in manholes under the approaches to the bridge, completing the installation of telephone lines.

The temporary span was designed by the J. E. Greiner Company, Baltimore, at the request of the Mayor and Council, and built at a cost of about $25,000.

Construction of the temporary and permanent span was incorporated into Section 4 of the Wills Creek phase of the flood control project.

About 1:01 p.m. yesterday firemen from East Side checked a grass fire on Fort Avenue.

Physical Education Aims Cited In Teachers' Guide

This is the second in a series of three articles on the organized physical program visualized during the recess period in all Allegheny County elementary schools.

There are four general objectives and at least 15 specific objectives to the planned physical education program for Allegheny County's elementary schools.

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education in the county public schools, has sent the more than 200 elementary school teachers a list of these itemized objectives.

The four general objectives of physical education are (1) development of organic vitality and better health, (2) development of many specific neuromuscular skills, (3) development of proper ideals, attitudes and habits of conduct and (4) development of mental and emotional processes.

Among the specific objectives of physical education are development of basic muscular strengths and improvement of physical efficiency, improvement of the individual's posture, decrease of mental strain and improvement of mental health, development of symmetry, control and grace of bodily movement and development of the ability to meet physical emergencies.

Other specific objectives include development of alertness and quick response, development of an active response to rhythm, development of courage, self-control, self-sacrifice, courtesy, kindness, loyalty, obedience, honesty, cooperation and initiative, creation in the youth of intelligent and healthful interest in physical activity and to give him a fund of activity material for use in leisure time.

Also cited as specific objectives of physical education are creation of an interest in the physical welfare of others, promotion of the desire for wholesome associations and recreation, development of the proper spirit toward victory and defeat, development of good character, and development of qualities inherent in leadership.

First Disability Social Security Checks Mailed

More than 100,000 disabled workers throughout the country have been notified that they have qualified for Social Security disability insurance benefits and will receive their first checks this month. James E. Robertson, manager of the local Social Security office, observed yesterday.

Mr. Robertson said it was quite possible that many of these checks would be mailed by today, and the remainder shortly.

Social Security benefit checks for any month are ordinarily delivered on the third of the following month. Because of the large number of disability applications, officials said, it was impossible to get checks out on August 3 to all those entitled to disability benefits for the month of July.

Those disabled workers whose applications can be approved in the near future will receive their first checks in coming months.

All disabled workers eligible under the law, and whose applications are filed before the end of December 1957, will get benefit payments for the months of July through December of this year. Claimants filing after December 1957 will not receive benefits for any time before the month of application.

To qualify for disability insurance benefits a person must be between 50 and 65 years of age and have a long-lasting disability that prevents him from engaging in substantial activity. The law also provides that disabled persons of any age who meet the disability and work requirements may apply to have their Social Security records "frozen" when a worker's record is frozen, his own and his family's future benefit rights are protected.

County Building Permits Total $173,305 In July

Decrease From Last Year Noted

Forty-two building permits were issued last month by the Allegheny County assessing department for construction which the builders estimate will cost a total of $173,305.

The July activity could not quite match a year ago when 45 permits were issued for construction estimated to cost a total of $191,375. However it was well ahead of July 1955 when 22 permits were issued for construction costing $68,950.

Through the first seven months of 1957 there have been 239 building permits issued and the total estimated cost is $3,407,080. That includes a $2,000,000 shopping center authorized in January but which apparently has been abandoned.

Even without that $2,000,000 job, the seven-month total is well ahead of the same period in both 1955 and 1956. In the first seven months of 1955, there were 153 permits for $681,560 construction. Last year there were 200 permits for construction costing $918,045.

The July construction authorized in the unincorporated areas of the county was for work in 17 of the county's election districts. The July leader, as usual, was District 29 in LaVale, with 12 permits.

Eight other districts with two or more July permits included District 5, North End suburban, and District 6, West Side suburban, four permits each; District 3, Flintstone, and District 20, Corriganville-Ellerslie, three each; District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings; District 13, Mt. Savage; District 16, North Branch, and District 21, Gross, two each.

Single permits were issued for jobs in District 2, Oldtown; District 9, Barton; District 12, Frostburg suburban; District 19, Borden Shaft; District 26, Frostburg suburban; District 28, Frostburg suburban; District 30, Zihlman, and District 31, McCoole.

Eighteen of the 42 July permits were for new dwellings. Ten others were for additions to dwellings. Other permits included four for garages, one addition to gas station and store, one club room, one shed, one dwelling and garage, two cottages, one porch, one addition to store and dwelling, one tool house and one addition to store.

State's Share Of Road Fund $33,557,895

Part Of National Highway Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Maryland will get more than $33,500,000 as its share of the national highway program in the 12 months starting in mid-1958.

The Bureau of Public Roads today earmarked $33,557,895 for Maryland as part of nearly three billion dollars to be spent throughout the nation in fiscal 1959.

Maryland's share was apportioned as follows:

1 — $23,983,140 for interstate highways — part of a 41,000 mile network of limited access super-highways which will link 90 per cent of all cities with a population of 50,000 or more. The program calls for completion in about 16 years.

2 — $3,715,608 for urban highways that are extensions of primary and secondary systems into cities.

3 — $3,626,924 for the primary highway system, including almost all main routes used in inter-city travel.

4 — $2,222,223 for the secondary system of farm-to-market and feeder roads.

Commerce Secretary Weeks said the fiscal 1959 apportionment was announced a year in advance "to insure uninterrupted progress in the program."

Carman Helper Is Suing B&O For $25,000

A local resident employed as a carman helper for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, is suing the company for $25,000 for injuries sustained while at work at the Roundhouse here on March 28, 1955.

Paul A. Buckalew, 605 Virginia Avenue, according to the declaration filed by Thomas N. Berry, was working with another employee in removing the draw bar and safety bar between a steam engine and its tender.

They were using a wooden lever furnished by the railroad as a tool to raise the draw bar pin in order to free the draw bar. The lever suddenly disengaged from the pin due to the failure of the support of the lever.

The wooden lever came down on the right ankle of Mr. Buckalew, causing him to fall into a sitting position on the lever and his ankle. He sustained a severe contusion, strain and swelling of his ankle, he said.

Mr. Buckalew went to Memorial Hospital for X-rays and examination that day and on the following day went back to the hospital, where he was a patient eight days. He was treated regularly until about the end of May 1955.

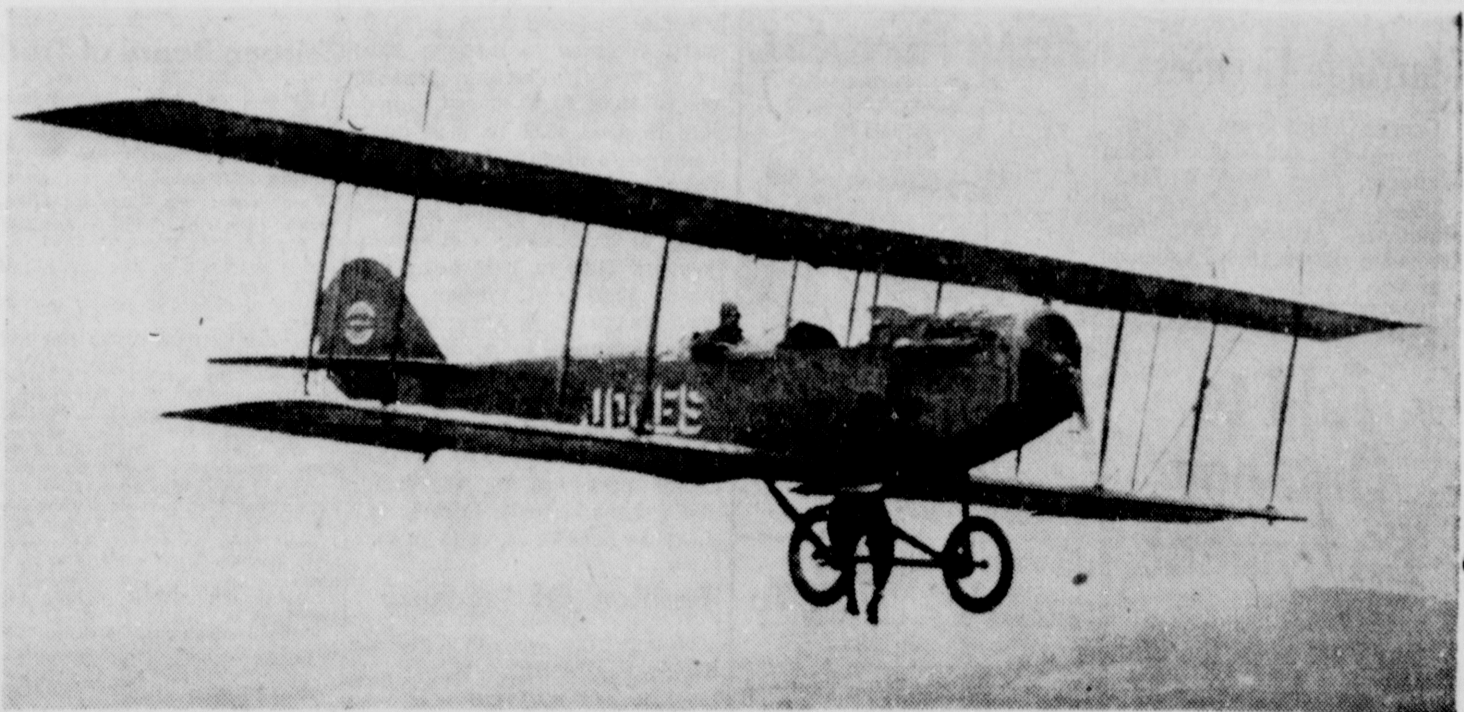

Later he was treated on occasions in Baltimore by railroad physicians. The plaintiff claims he lost 149 days of work, as well as a number of days in 1956 and 1957, and also is permanently disabled.

Men Hurt In Wreck Remain 'Unchanged'

Attaches at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night reported the condition of two Lonaconing men, who were injured Wednesday morning in a highway accident which claimed the lives of two other men, as "unchanged."

Pioneers Of Aviation Meet Here This Evening

The Jenny, relic of World War I, was used by early stunt fliers such as this 1926 pair.

ments of his flying career occurred in 1930 when he was flying alone in the Mexico Farms area while he was at the controls of a Jenny, the drift and stagger wires broke, causing the plane to go into a tailspin and plunge earthward for a distance of about 1,200 feet.

Chief Parker walked away up the aerial circus. Such breath-from the wreckage with a few bruises, although the Jenny was demolished when it crashed into a hargar.

He also recalls the barnstorming days when Pat Doyle's Fly-Circus of Elkins gave the crowds a thrill a minute. About five pilots and a stunt man made Chief Parker walked away up the aerial circus. Such breathtaking stunts as the delayed parachute opening and wing walking thrilled spectators who saw the show.
